Re: Inventory Control

Inventory control is an ongoing problem with the cafeteria. The latest problem is with raisin bran. I could better understand inventory problems with perishable items. I think raisin bran could sit on a shelf for years without perishing.

It is hard to imagine IHOP or Denny's having an ongoing inventory problem that patrons notice. These are resolved so quickly that the patrons do not even notice it. Perhaps there is something that residents could do that would help, though I cannot imagine what it would be.

Please explore this matter and give the residents a write up in the minutes so we can see what efforts you have made.
